INTERESTING ADDRESS ON ARMY LIFE

Harry H. Atkinson, district attorney, addressed the general assembly of the public schools in the high school auditorium, his theme being: "The Practical Side of Army Life." He said in substance that an army was just as essential to a government as a police force to a city or a constabulary to a state. A government is respected according to its ability to enforce its laws and its treaty rights. Sometimes it is just as necessary to use an army for such a purpose in matters pertaining to the nation as it is to the police force of a city or a state to enforce the laws.

As long as any government or power was quarrelsome or inclined to be warlike, it was necessary for the other powers to maintain an army to cope with that warlike nation in case of necessity. This justified the maintenance by France of a large standing army and the creation by England of a powerful navy, and it should have been the policy of this government, as soon as Germany's attitude on submarine warfare was disclosed, to have prepared itself to meet the emergency, which would inevitably and has actually resulted.

Mr. Atkinson said that just as a bully in school picks out his victims one at a time, each one generally inferior to him in size and strength, so the working of the eight-hour law and the effect of government supervision of the roads precipitated charges by Lee that managements were doing their utmost to discredit both. He said overtime had been doubled and tripled to make the effect of the Adamson law more expensive and to represent that the workers were obtaining large wage increases. Furthermore, he declared that every effort was being used to handicap transportation to create dissatisfaction with the government's part in business.

"I would go back to about four banks in New York if I wanted to find out the real cause for this," he said. Asked how he thought the alleged results had been accomplished, he said he thought the "word had been passed down the line" that overtime was to be increased greatly. He did not think there had been a conspiracy "from the presidents down to the dispatchers" to delay trains under government supervision, but insisted sufficient persons were interested to that end to obtain what they desired. He referred to train dispatchers as "train delayers."

Secretary Lane, chairman of the commission, asked numerous questions concerning the union leaders' allegations and wanted to know if they meant that the railroads actually had run up their operating costs in order to discredit the Adamson law. Mr. Lee replied that it was "perfectly natural."

"I do not think it was natural; I am not so cynical about human nature," the secretary said.

Mr. Garretson supplemented his colleague's statements. "The operating employees are thoroughly aware of the manner of clearing congestion which was in effect before the government took over the roads," he said. "They also are aware of the kind of transportation now being given, but I want to say there is one class of employees not engaged in giving a demonstration of what a failure government operation is."

D. W. Holt, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Signal Men, asserted that the work of the wage commission was being "used as a cloak" by some of the roads to discontinue negotiations with employees which were begun before the commission was appointed.

It was Germany's aim to pick out each country in turn and dispose of each separately. Our chance had come and we chose to get into the fight for our own protection and to save our own country, while Germany was engaged in her fight with the others.

Generally speaking, the life of a recruit or a member of the army is not as severe as is experienced by the prospector, the freighter, the shepherd or the cowpuncher. Except when at the front, it is more like camping out, where the man is trained to be a real soldier and shows the benefit of a rigid discipline, which should be experienced by every American boy.

The man at the front is just like a boy going into a football game. He is nervous and excited at first, but after he gets into the scrap he forgets all about himself and, like the young football player, who fights the gridiron battle for the sake of his school and the honor of the institution, so the soldier fights his battle for the sake of the government, the men, women and children at home, in order that this country will not be made a Belgium, a Serbia or an Armenia, with its accompanying terrible atrocities, violations and murders.

DEPARTMENT CALLED TO QUELL TWO FIRES

Two incipient blazes, which might have caused great destruction, were quickly checked by the fire department last evening. The first call was at 4:20. It was at the home of James Nesbitt, on Edwards street. The second was at the residence of Walter Bowler, on Summit street. Both fires were caused by defective flues. The damage was slight, chemical streams being all that were required to stop the blazes.

LAID AT REST.

The funeral of the late Alexander McCafferty took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Many beautiful flowers were placed upon the bier and the services were largely attended by friends of decades past. Rev. Harlan Halley conducted the service. Interment was in the local cemetery. The pallbearers were: R. M. Merten, Fred Ninnis, W. W. Booth, W. T. Cuddy, John Williams and Albert Kelly.

SHIPS THIRD CARLOAD.

The third carload of high grade ore since the recent strike was shipped from the Cash Boy this morning by Superintendent Dooley. Both drifts are showing improvement today.

BILL INTRODUCED.

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Senator Overman today introduced a bill to remove the statutory limitations which prevent co-ordination of government departments.

IMPORTANT RULING BY ADMINISTRATION

MADE TO CONSERVE THE SUPPLY OF WHEAT IN UNITED STATES.

The following new ruling with reference to the sale of flour is now in effect and must be absolutely adhered to by every dealer. While the following notice only deals with "licensed" dealers, it nevertheless applies to every grocer, who, in case of violation of these instructions, will be reached by the administration through jobbers, who will be prohibited from selling them foodstuffs of any nature:

"When a housewife buys five pounds, or any amount of flour up to twenty-five pounds, for family use, from her grocer, she must also purchase with it an equal amount of substitute cereal, as set forth in the new lists of the food administration. This rule is mandatory and any infraction of the rule on the part of the grocer would cause him to lose his license."

"The old story of not having been 'officially notified' does not hold good. Merchants were allowed to 'get by' with this alibi during the sugar sale readjustments, but now the publication of the law in the news columns of newspapers is sufficient, and the only information necessary to direct the grocer."

"According to the rules of the food administration, every grocer throughout the breadth and length of the United States must refuse to sell wheat flour, save in combination with a like amount of other cereals."

"The cereals named are cornmeal, hominy, rice and rice flour, potato flour, oat preparations, barley flour or corn preparations."

"Graham or cracked wheat flour products are not permissible as the second half of the combination."

"The enforcement of the new rule will be far more strict, it is announced by the food administration, than the sugar ruling was. One infraction will mean loss of license without discussion and no excuses will be accepted."

RELIEF CORPS PARTY.

The party being arranged by Gettysburg corps, W. R. C., will take place on Lincoln's birthday, February 12, in Eagles' hall. There will be card games, refreshments, music and dancing. All are invited to attend. The proceeds will be devoted to the good work of the organization.

BERNE THE WINNER.

Special to the Bonanza. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 6.—Berne, the Russian wrestler, defeated William Sandol here last night, the first fall going 14 minutes and the second four minutes.

Berne challenged the winner of the Taramanashi-Romonof match. I positively guarantee that every watch repaired by me will not lose or gain a minute a week. Emil Merman, at Roberts Grocery. advJ251f

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE BUTLER.

A problem of vital importance to progressive men and women is presented in "More Truth Than Poetry," a five-act feature, with Mme. Petrova. That is whether a man has the moral right when he achieves fame and success to discard for a young face the wife who has worked shoulder to shoulder with him, denying herself luxuries, in order that he may attain prominence. In many instances in real life the man who has done this has incurred the displeasure of the community, and has found success slipping out of his grasp in an unaccountable manner. In "More Truth Than Poetry" Ashton Blair, an unsuccessful lawyer, is given such valuable aid by his clever wife, Vera, that he finally wins fame. He is spoiled by his sudden good fortune, and neglects her for another woman, finally telling her frankly that he is tired of her and no longer needs her. The way in which this crisis is met in the Metro wonderplay furnishes a highly dramatic climax to an absorbing screen drama. Hearst-Pathe News—Official U. S. War Pictures, Niagara Falls in Winter, and many more interesting events of the day.

Tomorrow: The ways of a maid are proverbially witching—but as for the ways of a tomboy with a man—and when that tomboy is Marguerite Clark—there's nothing more to be said! As "Lord Tommy," she lives through many and varied adventures in "The Amazons." Matinee at 1:30; evening, 7 and 8:30.
